CALL FOR PAPERS

Themes

1. Pedagogy for effective use of ICT in Engineering Education.
2. IoT for everyday life.
3. IoT for smart house.

IoT

Lately the concept of Internet of Things (IoT) is being more elaborated and meet the need of an Internet of Things scenario. Internet of Things is being considered to be an integral part of smart house where devices will be connected to each other and also react upon certain environmental input. This will eventually include the home refrigerator, air conditioner, lights, heater and such other home appliances.

ICT

Education research, policy and practice increasingly are focused on the generic skills, including information and technology literacy. Concurrently, professional and educational literature related to the use of information and communication technologies (ICT) expounds its benefits in supporting and enabling engineering professionals. They undertake their roles and responsibilities for moving towards IoT.
